

Outer Fields License Agreement

Version 1.0

Content Definition: "Content" refers to all products, services, source-code, executables, and all other assets related to Outer Fields and any/all associated projects created by its original creators unless such content is explicitly licensed under different terms or exclusions.

License Holder: Refers to the current entity or entities that hold the intellectual property rights to the Content, as defined below, at any given time.

1. Intellectual Property Rights

The License Holder of Outer Fields retains all intellectual property rights regarding the Content. This includes but is not limited to digital assets, designs, source code, branding, names and all other elements associated with Outer Fields and its related projects/services.

2. User Rights and Restrictions

Users are granted rights consistent with the U.S. "fair use" doctrine. Users can display and interact with the Content but do not possess ownership rights over the underlying digital media. For NFTs, ownership is limited to the Content's tokenization on the Chia blockchain. Redistribution of the Content is prohibited, except for transferring ownership of tokenized assets via the Chia blockchain. All usage should align with the services offered by the License Holder.

3. Usage Limitations

The Content is intended exclusively for Outer Fields and related projects/services as authorized by the License Holder. Any other usage of the Content must receive explicit written permission from the License Holder.

4. Exception Clause

If Outer Fields and its related projects are formally discontinued by its License Holder, or if the services related to these projects remain offline and inactive for a period of at least 3 months, the preceding license terms may cease to apply under the following conditions:

- Projects intending to use the Content must release their source code as open-source, licensed under the GNU General Public License (GPL) v3.0.
- Such projects must explicitly acknowledge that they are derivative and not the original License Holder of the Content. They must also avoid any naming or branding that imitates or suggests they are a continuation of the original project, unless given written permission to do so.
- Redistribution or resale of existing digital assets, defined as NFT and their digital content, in relation to a project wishing to operate under this clause is prohibited. However, the transfer of ownership of existing digital is permitted along with all right granted in Section 2.

If the above conditions are met, any Content without defined exceptions may be freely used in accordance the the terms outlined in the beginning of section 4, this includes source code, functionality and digital assets in their pre-existing form. Derivative works may be created, and profits may be earned under the umbrella of a GPL 3.0 licensed project.

5. Termination of Exception Clause

In the event of a violation of any terms outlined in Section 4 (Exception Clause), all rights granted under that clause are immediately revoked. The violating entity is no longer granted use of the Content as outlined in section 4 and as such:

1. Must cease any and all use of the Content.
2. Must cease in providing any service related to the Content.
3. Is no longer granted rights to any Content as defined under the "Content Definition."
4. May be held legally accountable for any violations, including but not limited to, potential lawsuits and financial penalties.

6. Liability and Disclaimers

6.1 General Liability

The License Holder shall not be liable for any damages, whether direct, indirect, incidental, special, consequential or exemplary, arising out of or in connection with the use or misuse of the Content and offered services. Users are solely responsible for ensuring their use of the Content and related services is in compliance with all applicable local, state, national, and international laws and regulations.

6.2 No Warranties or Representations

The License Holder provides the Content and related services "as is," without warranty of any kind, express or implied. No verbal or written communication from or on behalf of the License Holder shall create any warranty obligation or representation of any kind.

6.3 Exception Clause and Continued Use Liability

Upon activation of the Exception Clause, all Content is provided "as is," without any warranties of any kind. The License Holder disclaims all liability related to the continued use, modification, or distribution of the Content, and for any and all claims arising out of or related to the Exception Clause.

Governing Law

This Agreement is governed by the laws of United States of America. Any disputes arising from this Agreement shall be resolved through arbitration or within a court of any competent jurisdiction within the United States of America.